ORR MANSION ROOF

The new tile roof is being installed on the Orr Mansion as we put this newsletter together. The sections that have been completed so far are looking great! This has been a major project for us and one that the LCHS board felt we could not put off any longer. We are fortunate that Ludowici Roof Tile, the company that made the original tiles Mr. Orr used, is still in business and made the tiles for this project as well. The fact they are still in business speaks for the quality of their work.

Obviously, a project this big comes with a big price tag. Lee's Roofing was awarded the project for $142,900. We have been fundraising throughout the year to help pay for the roof. Honda of America, Mfg. was very generous in giving us a $30,000 grant. We have also been fortunate for the philanthropic culture of our members and the people of Logan County who have donated over $30,000 towards the roof. The board approved to take out a loan to pay for the rest of the roof.

We want to thank Honda of America and all of you who have donated towards the project. A special thank you to the families of Perry Hodies, Dick Ortl and Judy Castle who have allowed us to use the money donated in memory of these special people to go towards the roof as well.

President's Message

Hello everyone. As I write this, spring is well underway and summer is just around the corner! It is that busy time of year for all of us... spring planting, clean up, sporting events, vacation planning. The whole museum staff & many of our volunteers are engaged with young visitors from many of the surrounding schools. You may be aware that the Historical Society sponsors trips to the museum and local landmarks to introduce the students to Logan County history thru the many exhibits in the museum & the actual sites where historical events occurred across our county.

This year has been another exciting adventure with the completion of the restoration & installation of the Bellefontaine built Wissler Biplane! From the foresight of museum members many years ago to acquire the remains of this great piece of Logan County Aviation history, generous donations of materials, monies, labor & advise from many members of the community and museum members we have checked off another major completed project! I am sure the students will find this a fun and interesting large attraction to check out. Congratulations to everyone!

During the open house for the viewing of the Wissler prior to being "Hoisted into the Rafters" of the Transportation Museum to its long term home, we discovered word had spread in the Aviation Community of the Wissler and our activity to restore it. There was a large number of aviation enthusiasts from across Ohio in attendance as well as many from the local community.

The comments of those in attendance were all overwhelmingly positive and ranged from disbelief that a small community could have such an incredible museum / facility to "this is the first time we've been to the museum" (even though they live just a couple of miles away!)

So this brings me to the topic I have been pondering... how to bring more visitors into the museum. I speak to so many people that have never visited & don't even know where the museum is located. We are always working on ways to invite more folks to visit & re-visit since exhibits are always changing and we have many "Special Events" throughout the year.

So I ask everyone to spread the word... invite your family, friends, neighbors, co-workers. Tell them about the diverse topics that are displayed from period correct furnishings in the Orr Mansion, how the many rooms in the main portion of the museum tell stories of early school classrooms, military exhibits, the development of telephones, radios & televisions thru the years, farming displays, and also the transportation museum with coverage from horse & buggies, railroad up to current Honda products. Also, let them know what's new... including the Wissler hanging overhead in the Transportation Museum and the upcoming exhibit on Logan County Restaurants through the years!

We are looking to increase our presence on Facebook, as it connects so many people regardless of age, where they live now, etc. John McPherson has done a great job posting information to our page "Logan County History Center" thru the years. I recently asked Brian Harmon to help determine how we can get connected to more people thru Facebook & he completed an excellent analysis! We will be moving to implement improvements based on his findings. So again... pass the word & Like us on Facebook!

In closing, if you have suggestions of how to spread the word, please let us know. Stop in, drop an e-mail (historycenter@loganhistory.org attn. Brian Baker) or snail mail. We always value your opinions!

See you @ the History Center... Brian

Pre-West Liberty History

West Liberty is Logan County's oldest American village being laid out in 1817, a year before Logan County was officially formed. Over the last two hundred (plus) years West Liberty has witnessed more than its share of interesting history.

West Liberty's rich history goes back much further than 1817. The Shawnee founded three villages in and around the land that now makes up West Liberty – Moluntha's Town, Mackachack and Wapakoneta. These towns were probably founded in the 1760s. The villages were destroyed by Benjamin Logan's Kentucky militia in the fall of 1786 but were rebuilt. American forces once again trekked through West Liberty twenty-five years later as part of General Hull's march through Ohio during the War of 1812.

West Liberty Becomes A Town

The settlers who came to West Liberty after the removal of the American Indians discovered why the Shawnee chose this land for their homes. The area offered several sources of water with the Mad River, Muddy Run and McKees Creek. The network of trails made by the Shawnee and other Indians in the area offered accessibility to the settlers and for trade in and out of the village. Perhaps above all, the land also yielded bountiful crops.

Some of these early settlers to West Liberty included Thomas Baird, John Dunn, Henry Fulton, Samuel Newell, James Walds, Abner Snoddy, Vachal Blaylock and others. Another early settler was John Enoch who built a mill in 1815 that became the commercial center of West Liberty and beyond. Farmers from all over the area brought their grain to Enoch's mill, due in part to the relatively good roads (old Indian trails) that connected West Liberty to surrounding areas.

More merchants soon settled in West Liberty. Hiram M. White owned and operated a store, hotel and tavern, and became active in the young village's politics. Thomas Miller (mill), Ira Reynolds (merchant), R.E. Runkle (merchant), Benjamin Ginn (tailor), John Vaughn (tanner), William Moore and Abner Tharp (wagon makers), along with John Moore and John Williams (blacksmiths) were among West Liberty's earliest businessmen.

Celebrating West Liberty's

West Liberty Thrives, Burns & Thrives Again

Throughout much of the 19th century West Liberty rivaled Bellefontaine in terms of commerce. Although the railroad would help make Bellefontaine the commercial and industrial center of Logan County after the Civil War, the railroad also helped West Liberty. The Mad River & Lake Erie Railroad reached West Liberty in 1849. The MR & LE furthered West Liberty as a prosperous trading center, especially in grain and stock by connecting the town to many markets.

The Interurban or electric railroad also influenced the growth and popularity of West Liberty. The Urbana, Bellefontaine & Western Company completed a line through West Liberty in the early 1900s and then were bought out by the Ohio Electric Railroad (OER) and later by the Cincinnati & Lake Erie Railroad. With trains going upwards of 90 mph, the Interurban allowed residents in West Liberty to hop on the train and get to neighboring towns like Bellefontaine or Urbana or even larger cities like Springfield and Lima in a matter of minutes and the same for visitors to West Liberty.

West Liberty thrived as a small town. However, on May 13, 1880, disaster struck the village when a fire destroyed a block of the downtown. Despite the efforts of many residents who formed a bucket brigade, the fire could not be contained. Fire departments from Bellefontaine and Urbana came to the aid of West

Liberty, but many downtown buildings and businesses were destroyed in the fire. After the fire, it was decided the village needed its own fire engine. Although it took eight years, West Liberty had its first fire engine in service in 1888. (Learn more about the history of West Liberty fires and fire departments in the Fire Engine Bay in the Logan County Transportation Museum.)

West Liberty recovered from the 1880 fire. Buildings were rebuilt and businesses reopened. In 1903 West Liberty took a big step towards modernization when Jacob Anstine put a dynamo or generator in the basement of the Enoch Mill. After the mill closed in the evening the water wheel shifted from turning the gears of the mill to turning the generator that in turned produced electricity to give light to the residents of West Liberty.

By its centennial, West Liberty had a population around 1,300. The most recent census shows West Liberty's population at 1,781. It continues to be a thriving village with a number of eclectic shops that are popular with local residents as well as people from Logan County and beyond. In the last couple of decades West Liberty has undergone a revitalization and beautification with new lampposts, signage and brick sidewalks.

West Liberty is proud of its history. Currently, the West Liberty Historical Society is in the process of restoring the village's Town Hall and Opera House. West Liberty will honor and recognize its rich history with a special bicentennial celebration July 6th – 9th, 2017.
